Creative Story Making Workshops for children

Inspired by Janis Mackay's Magnus Fin and The Ocean Quest (where Magnus Fin meets a terrible monster under the sea). I will be encouraging people to create their very own sea creature and weaving a story around his - her - or IT!

Aonghas MacNeacail poet and songwriter, was born in Uig, on the Isle of Skye. He is also a broadcaster, journalist, scriptwriter, librettist and translator. A native Gael, he writes in Gaelic and English. His collections of poetry have been published in both languages, and his writing has appeared in literary journals all over the world.

NOT LISTED?

To Everybody who's not in the printed program:

We're a small bunch of volunteers who in the end pulled all the pieces in hand, together: Now please join us with ever more zest and imagination for this, your festival and those in the future. This is our coming together. Without YOU it will not be us all coming together.

To join in:

- either simply tell us what you are doing, when and how, and we'll put it in.
- or give us a call to discuss how you can join up with your art or craft, music, poetry, drama or dance with existing or emerging events.
